I. INTRODUCTION

National Service Scheme (NSS) is a voluntary program under which young students from colleges, universities, and +2 level work towards creating a campus-community linkage. Popular as NSS, this program is conducted by the Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports. The scheme majorly orients the students to community service while they are studying in educational institutions developing their personality and inner feelings towards community welfare. NSS helps the student to grow individually and also as a group. Volunteering for various tasks under NSS activities allows students to become confident, develop leadership skills, and learn about different people from different walks of life. Students also learn about various life-essential skills while working towards improving people’s living standards, thereby fulfilling the aim of NSS of providing help to everyone in need. Active volunteers of NSS earn exposure and experience in becoming accomplished social leaders and efficient administrators. NSS Lords University works true to the motto of the National Service Scheme, “NOT ME BUT YOU”. The society at Lords teaches to be disciplined and organised with the goals set for self and working for community welfare activities. [1,2]

Aims & Objectives of NSS followed by Lords as mentioned in nss.gov.in are:

- i. To understand the community in which they work;
- ii. To understand themselves concerning their community;
- iii. To identify the needs and problems of the community and involve them in problem-solving.
- iv. To develop among themselves a sense of social and civic responsibility;
- v. To utilise their knowledge in finding practical solutions to individual and community problems;
- vi. To develop competence required for group-living and sharing of responsibilities;
- vii. To gain skills in mobilising community participation;
- viii. To acquire leadership qualities and a democratic attitude;
- ix. To develop the capacity to meet emergencies and natural disasters

National Service Scheme (NSS) was launched during 1969, the birth centenary year of Mahatma Gandhi, in 37 universities involving 40000 students. NSS is an extension dimension to the higher education system to orient the student youth to community service while they are studying in educational institutions. It is being implemented by the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, Government of India.[3,4]

More:-

1. To understand the community in which they work;
2. To understand themselves in relation to their community;
3. To identify the needs and problems of the community and involve them in problem solving process.
4. To develop among themselves a sense of social and civic responsibility;
5. To utilise their knowledge in finding practical solution to individual and community problems;
6. To develop competence required for group-living and sharing of responsibilities;
7. To gain skills in mobilising community participation;
8. To acquire leadership qualities and democratic attitude;
9. To develop capacity to meet emergencies and natural disasters; and
10. To practice national integration and social harmony

The NSS symbol is based on the "Rath" wheel of the Konark Sun Temple situated in Odisha.

The navy blue colour indicates the cosmos of which the NSS is a tiny part, ready to contribute its share for the welfare of the mankind.

The Red colour in the badge indicates that the NSS volunteers are full of blood i.e. lively, active, energetic and full of high spirit.

The giant wheels of the Sun Temple portray the cycle of creation, preservation and release, and signify the movement in life across time and space.[5,6]

NSS is a voluntary scheme. NSS scheme starts from 11th Standard onwards. At college level the NSS volunteers will be enrolled from the first and second year degree-class students. The students from foreign countries studying in Indian universities can also join NSS so that they may share the experiences of national reconstruction and community work. NCC cadets will not be allowed to join NSS. Similarly NSS volunteers will not participate in NCC or any other youth organisation as long as they are in NSS.

An NSS volunteer needs to devote a total of 240 hours social service in two years duration. Every year, a NSS volunteer has to devote 20 hrs. of orientation and 100 hrs. of community service.

To enrol as NSS volunteer, contact the NSS Programme Officer of your school / college. Enrollment in NSS is free.

The NSS volunteers on successful completion of the required hours of service are issued a certificate. NSS volunteers can get some weightage during admissions in higher studies and other benefits as decided by the institutions/university.[7,8]

Administrative structure in NSS

At School / college level

The unit at college/+2 level is the grass-root unit in NSS. An institution will be allotted NSS units according to the strength of students. The number of units will be allotted by the Programme Coordinator in consultation with NSS Regional Directorate and State NSS Officer considering the demands of the institution. The strength of a unit will be 100 NSS volunteers normally. A Programme Officer will be incharge of a NSS unit. Only those belonging to the teaching faculty will be considered for appointment as Programme Officer. Programme Officer will be responsible for the organisation of NSS unit, implementation of NSS programme under the supervision and direction of Principal of the college or head of the institution.

At University level

Every University has an NSS Cell to supervise and coordinate NSS Programme in Colleges affiliated to it. The Universities having strength of more than 10000 NSS volunteers have full time Programme Coordinators. The Universities having strength of less than 10000 NSS volunteers have part time programme coordinators.

At state level

At the State level, a State NSS Cell headed by the State Liaison Officer (SLO) coordinates the programme. The Government of India extends cent percent financial assistance for establishing the State NSS Cell.

At Regional level

NSS Regional Centres have been established in the country to maintain liaison with the State Governments, Universities, +2 Councils and TOC/TORCs for the effective implementation of NSS Programme. NSS Regional Centre (RC) which is a subordinate field office of the Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports is established depending upon the volunteers strength and size of the state. It is either headed by a Deputy Programme Adviser or an Assistant Programme Adviser. The Deputy Programme Adviser/Assistant Programme Adviser belong to Group-A grade of the Central Government Service.

Today NSS has about 3.86 million student youth enrolled in 41,442 NSS units spread over through 396 Universities/ +2 Councils, 16,331 Colleges/ Technical Institutions and 28,621 Senior Secondary Schools across the country.[9,10]

Activities undertaken by NSS

1. National Integration Camp
2. Shramdaan
3. Blood donation
4. Immunisation
5. Plantation
6. Disaster Management
7. Adventure programs.

II. DISCUSSION

NSS volunteer undertake various activities in campus, adopted villages and slumps for community service. Duration of these service is 120 hours ie. 20 hours for orientation of NSS volunteers, 30 hours for campus work and 70 hours for community service. In regular NSS programmes students undertake various activities in the college campuses, adopted villages, cities and slums during weekends. Adoption of a village or an area is a meaningful programme in NSS. HIV or AIDS is a major threat for humanity in the world especially in developing countries. Globally millions of people are suffering from this disease. Adolescents of developing countries have partial knowledge about HIV/AIDS. Almost all developing countries face the same dilemma. The global HIV/AIDS situation for adolescents is deadly serious, and the need for a stronger, focused response is urgent. Young people are particularly vulnerable to HIV infection because of risky sexual behavior and substance use, because they lack access to accurate and personalized HIV information and prevention services, and for a host of other social and economic reasons. An estimated 11.8 million young people aged 15-24 are living with HIV/AIDS. Moreover, about half of the 6,000 new infections each day occur among young people. It is estimated that about half of all people who have had HIV were infected when they were between the ages of 15 and 24, and nearly one third of those currently living with HIV/AIDS are between 15 and 24. If current trends continue, it is expected that the number of young people infected with HIV/AIDS [11,12] could increase to 21.5 million by 2010. UNFPA has made youth and HIV its priorities in the context of international goals and commitments related to adolescent sexual and reproductive health. UNFPA is particularly well positioned to respond to the HIV epidemic among youths because of its decades of experience in: integrating population and family-life education in schools and in non-formal education settings; facilitating the shift towards gender-sensitive reproductive health education; building broad-based partnerships on reproductive health; negotiating controversial issues with government and key stakeholders from a respectful and culturally sensitive standpoint; advocating for public commitment, policies and legislation that support reproductive rights and gender equality; and supporting countries to improve the quality and accessibility of youth-friendly reproductive health services. Addressing the prevention needs of people living with HIV is a critical challenge for the health sector. Expanding access to HIV testing and antiretroviral therapy will increase the number of people living with HIV who can benefit from comprehensive HIV prevention, treatment and care services in the health sector. Most people living with HIV will remain sexually active. Health providers should respect their right to do so and support them and their partners in preventing further HIV transmission, including through the provision of condoms. For some, knowledge about their HIV infection may not prompt a change in behavior to reduce further HIV transmission, and additional support may be needed. Effective strategies for preventing HIV/AIDS transmission—sexual, blood borne, and mother-to-child. However, fewer than one in five people at high risk for hiv currently have access to effective prevention.<sup>1</sup> According to an analysis by unaids and the World Health Organization, expanded access to proven revention strategies could avert half of the 62 million new hiv infections projected to occur between 2005 and 2015.<sup>2</sup> Another analysis found that in sub-Saharan Africa alone, expanded prevention could avert 55% of the 53 million new infections projected to occur in the region on 2003. There is no single solution—no “magic bullet”—to prevent hiv. The most effective prevention programs are those that use a combination of strategies to achieve maximum impact.<sup>4</sup> Following are descriptions of the major strategies that, when used in combination, are effective for preventing sexual, blood borne, and mother-to-child hiv transmission.

Through the conclusion that the ‘Role of National Service Scheme in the prevention of HIV /AIDS among Adolescents’ . which plays an very important role in present scenario, overall it focuses on community needs, health, family welfare and Nutrition programmes and finds the practical solution for these problems, in community itself. Thus it develops sharing of responsibilities and group living.[13,14]
